

Religion in Culture Lecture

“Sexing the Gods: Gender, Sex, Sexuality, and Systems of Belief”

Darlene Juschka

University of Regina
Regina, Saskatchewan Canada

Wednesday, February 22, 2006
3:30–5:30 PM

Gorgas Library, 2nd Floor
Henry Jacobs Reading Area

Prof. Juschka is the Coordinator of Women's Studies Program at the University of Regina. Her work is truly interdisciplinary; she is now studying gender, ritual, and healing in Cuba, as well as tracking women, in three Canadian provinces, as they emerge from abusive relationships. She is currently writing a monograph, The Semiotics of Gender: Political Bodies/Body Politic, and has recently published the chapter “Gender” in The Routledge Companion to the Study of Religion. Former co-editor of the quarterly journal, Method & Theory in the Study of Religion, Juschka is also the editor of Feminism in the Study of Religion: A Reader.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA
ARTS & SCIENCES

www.as.ua.edu/rel

co-sponsored by the Department of Women's Studies

